

ROSALIND FRANKLIN

Rosalind Franklin was born on July 25 1920 London England died April 16 1958 because she got cancer.

STEM:chemistry

Rosalind is best known for her X-ray photographs of DNA. The famous image led to the discovery of the DNA double helix which has helped scientists understand more about living things. Rosalind also studied plant growth.

By: Hafsa Mubashir